COAST GUARD STILL ACCEPTS ENLISTMENTS

The continued recruiting of 17-year-old men for the regular U. S. Coast Guard was announced today by Commodore Beckwith Jordon, District Coast Guard officer of the St. Louis Ninth Naval district.

While recruiting of both men and women in the Coast Guard reserve was stopped with the cessation of hostilities, more young men will be needed in the regular Coast Guard to help in the greatly expanded peace-time pursuits of the service afloat, and ashore, Commodore Jordon pointed out. Harbor protection and patrol, international weather patrol, sea rescue work and inspection of merchant ships will call for the largest peace-time complement in the history of the Coast Guard, 35,000.

The regular Coast Guard offers many opportunities to the 17-year-old. During the three-year term of enlistment the recruit has his choice of service schools, free medical attention, free correspondence courses, steady promotion and many other advantages including the opportunity to enjoy a service career with all its retirement privileges.

Now accepting regular enlistment applications for 17-year-olds is the Coast Guard Recruiting office, 508 New Federal building, St. Louis, Mo.

First "Hit-Run" Boat Accident on Lakes Claims Two

EGGEBRECHT BROTHERS ARE VICTIMS AT LONG LAKE; DRIVER SOUGHT

The identity of the speed boat driver responsible for what is believed to be the first "hit-and-run" boating accident that has ever occurred on the Chain of Lakes, and which took the lives of two men Sunday on Long lake, is still being sought by the Lake county sheriff's department. The victims, brothers, were Russell Egggebrecht, 34, of 5515 Lake street, Chicago, and Raymond Egggebrecht, 42, of 714 North Long avenue, Chicago.

Their bodies were recovered from the lake Monday and were brought to the Strang funeral home here, where an inquest will be held Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock by a jury which has been sworn in by Coronor Garfield R. Leaf.

The men were fishing from a rowboat, in which also were Mrs. Raymond Egggebrecht, 42, and two nephews, Robert Warren, 12, and James Kemp, 5, when the craft was struck by a speedboat, which failed to stop.

The two men are believed to have been injured in the collision, as they sank beneath the water immediately, and did not reappear. Mrs. Egggebrecht and the two children managed to remain afloat until help arrived, summoned by Robert after he succeeded in climbing atop the overturned rowboat.

Mrs. Egggebrecht was unconscious when taken from the water, but was revived by Round Lake firemen. Fox Lake firemen aided in the search for the bodies.

The two brothers were reported to have purchased a cabin on Long lake only a short time ago. They were spending their first holiday there when the accident occurred.

STATE AID TO SCHOOLS IN COUNTY INCREASED BY $15,000 IN 1944-5

Claims for Illinois state aid for public schools in Lake county show an increase of $150,000 for 1944-5, as compared with claims for the previous year, according to W. C. Petty, county superintendent.

The 1944-5 claims for the 108 school districts in the county amounted to $363,281.06 in state aid for the fiscal year ending June 30. Those allowed for the previous year amounted to $215,133.31 in state aid.

The increase is reported due to the general assembly's action in raising the state aid allotment from $13 to $19 in the elementary grades, and from $2 to $4 per pupil in the high school grades.

Kindergarten pupils are also included this year, for the first time, on a half-time basis.

The state aid allowance for the past year will be paid in 12 monthly installments, commencing in August, 1946.

The claims being filed by the county superintendent's office also include transportation, $22,381.89 ($19,231.66 for 20 schools last year). The transportation allowance will be increased from $15 per pupil to $20 per pupil next year.

Claims for state aid allowances to orphanages and military schools, in the county, covering the cost of education only, amount to $11,730.38 for orphans for the past year and $21,448.98 for military encampments.

YOUNG PEOPLE URGED TO COMPLETE EDUCATION

The Antioch Grade School and High School Parent Teacher associations are joining with the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teacher, the Illinois Child Labor committee and the Illinois Education association in urging that all young people who have been out of school during the emergency period plan now to return.

Officers of the state organizations have urged that, in view of the increasing need for an educated citizenry, all local units survey their local community situations and aid in this "Back-to-School" movement.

It is pointed out that with the urgent need for labor in industrial plants and on farms being eased by the return of veterans, many of these young people can plan on making an immediate return to their education, with the opening of the fall term or, in some cases, with the start of the second semester.

Those attending included Carrie Irving Shirley, Minneapolis, Minn.; her son, Chandler Shirley, a navy pharmacist's mate who is stationed at Great Lakes, and Mrs. Chandler Shirley, of Brookings, S. Dak.

Pvt. Richard Salisbury, Waukegan, who has just returned from service in the European area, was also present for the reunion.

"Bucket Brigade" of Neighbors Halts Fire

The prompt action of neighbors in forming a bucket brigade is credited by Fire Chief L. R. Van Patten with saving the Nels Christiansen cottage on the north shore of Loon lake from destruction when it was set afire by lightning during the storm Friday evening. Damages were estimated at around $500.

It is not known whether the cottage was struck directly, or whether the lightning followed electric wiring from a tree standing near a corner of the building. It was that part of the cottage nearest to the tree that was most severely damaged, however.

The fire was discovered when neighbors, walking about in the vicinity to see what damage had been done by the storm (which had been particularly severe in that area), saw sparks blowing up from the roof.

The alarm was turned in to the Antioch fire department, at 8 o'clock, and a bucket brigade was meanwhile hastily organized to carry water from the lake to fight the fire.

The fire had been brought under control by the time the firemen arrived, Chief Van Patten states.

It had gained considerable headway before it was observed, due to the fact that there had been no one in the building at the time. One room was badly burned out, and there was considerable damage from smoke throughout the building.

A straw stack on the Homer White place about two miles north east of the Christiansen place was destroyed by fire, also believed to have resulted from lightning, around the same time.

Research — For Life

It is most reassuring that, even as men learn to destroy life with terrifying efficiency, they are also concerned about how to save it and make it more enjoyable.

Scientific research and industrial "know-how" in this free economy of ours brought the atomic bomb into being, to destroy the will-to-war of the Japs.

At the same time we learned that General Motors is ready, pending the release of needed men and materials, to begin work on a vast technical center covering 350 acres near Detroit "in the interests of improved products, new and broader service to public needs, and expanded opportunities for employment."

Thus while its plants were pouring out needed equipment for war, a great and typical American industry prepared further to improve its peacetime products through scientific research and to open new and greater job opportunities when victory is won.

Then, too, comes the announcement from two of GM's top men—in their capacities as American citizens—Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., chairman, and Dr. C. F. Kettering, vice-president and research director, that the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation has made a grant of $4,000,000 for a ten-year campaign against that scourge of mankind—cancer; $2,000,000 will go to build and maintain an institute for cancer research, and the remainder to carry on that research without interruption.

In these two ways the techniques of industrial research will be utilized fully to enhance and save life, not to destroy it utterly.

Coal the Great Civilizer

Civilization as we know it in the United States is built on bituminous coal. Too many people take this statement as a slogan for an industry rather than as a statement of fact. But the seriousness of the coal shortage in European countries, which is undermining economic stability, is proving its truth beyond all question.

The industries of France and other nations are paralyzed because of lack of fuel to turn their wheels. The discontent of the people threatens lack of peace itself.

To gain an idea of what a shortage of coal means in Europe, aside from the inability of industries to operate and employ labor, it is only necessary to look at a few of the necessities we use in this country which depend on coal.

For instance, on the farm, there are the bug destroying insecticides, fertilizers, medicines to fight livestock diseases, creosote for fence posts, telephone poles and buildings, and coal for locomotives to move the farmers' crop.

In the home, coal plays a major part aside from heating. We depend on it for plastics, jewelry, aspirin, medicines (including sulfa drugs), food flavoring and colorings, textile dyes, baking powder, chemicals to wash woolens without shrinkage, perfume, suntan lotions and hundreds of other things.

Yes, indeed, civilization is built on bituminous coal, and countries without coal, as are European countries today, are in a helpless position.

American Diet

Before the war, surveys indicated that the American diet was deficient in thiamin, riboflavin and niacin—the nutrients that are added when bread and flour are enriched. It is true that the whole grain breads contain these nutrients naturally, but the American people prefer even insist on—light, fluffy, white bread.

Every day the Soo Line transports a forest. Those "fence posts" stacked on flatcars are pulpwood—soon to be transformed into cardboard cartons, rayon dresses, newspapers and countless other items.

The War Production Board has set a quota of 16,000,000 cords of pulpwood for this year, so badly is it needed throughout our entire economy. We have confidence that the industry will meet this challenge in the post-war period—and we pledge the cooperation of this railroad.

The Soo Line grew up with the pulpwood and paper industries in the territory tributary to its lines, and continues to serve them through a network of equipment and personnel. We're proud to have so prominent a part in this basic industry.

Paper is Critical — CONSERVE IT!

Crime STILL "Does Not Pay"

—Not Even for War-Seekers!

"There is no such thing as a 'perfect crime,'" has long been an axiom among law enforcement officers.

We have just seen this axiom proved—not on a city, state, or even a national scale, as was the case with gangsterdom toward the close of prohibition days—but on an international scale.

Germany and Japan both figured that they had fool-proof, self-financing schemes of conquest. Both started out gaily on their careers of crime. And they made it pay—richly—for a while. Italy strung along with them, because the racket looked good.

Then, little by little, things began to change. Strange as it might seem, the other people of the world didn't appear to care very much for the idea of sacrificing their lives, their families, their property or even their comfort for the well-being of Germany or Japan. They were more interested in their own welfare. They were not particularly overcome with the idea of worshipping any race as "a master race." In short, they remained pretty much unconverted.

And as time passed, things began to go wrong with the aggressor nations' bright dreams of "something for nothing," of securing wealth by taking it, rather than by working for it.

German leaders blamed their defeat on the wealth of the United States, the vast amount of equipment brought to bear against them. The Japanese are blaming theirs on their failure to lead in scientific knowledge.

Perhaps they are right, but it seems to us they are overlooking only one aspect of the matter. They are overlooking the fact that their aggressions were in themselves based on false premises, and that, in the ultimate analysis, they failed because of this fact.

They also overlook the very elementary fact that if there had been no aggressions, there could have been no humiliating defeats.

Hitler Also Promised Much

There should be a new definition for so-called "liberal" parties. They always seek public support under the guise of giving the "common man," whoever he may be, greater liberty, opportunity and ease of living. But, contrary to their preachings, they invariably seek to bind him with the shackles of state control.

Views of Others

A local farmer who has been raising hogs for more than 20 years is sending his brood sows into the fattening pen and quitting the business. He says that with OPA price control there is no money in the hog business. All that he gets for raising and fattening a litter is the company of the pigs and the smell, which since it is mixed with the smell of the OPA, is more than he can stand.—Lawrence (Kans.) Outlook.

FROM FIELD TELEPHONES

... TO FARM TELEPHONES

The army field telephone is one of the wonders of modern telephone science, made to do a vital job surpassingly well. Millions of these sets have gone into military service.

The same research, ingenuity and technical skills that built them are going into our post-war plans to extend and improve farm telephone service. Even with wartime restrictions, we have installed some 15,000 additional telephones since 1940 in rural communities served by Illinois Bell.

And just as soon as reconversion permits, we will go ahead full speed with a vast program of new construction, using many new ways and means. For instance, we'll have new, stronger steel wire that takes fewer poles per mile . . . new insulated wire that can be plowed into the ground . . . new dial systems, and other modern improvements.

All these things forecast better and broader telephone service for more farm families.

Thumbs Up

The "thumbs up" signal of approval is a survival of the gladiatorial combats staged by the ancient Romans for entertainment. The spectators decided whether a defeated gladiator should be killed or spared by holding their thumbs up or down. The thumb symbolized the short Roman sword and the gesture which meant approval indicated the sword should be turned away from the vanquished man.

Golden Wedding Is Honored With Reunion and Fete at Andyville

The fiftieth wedding anniversary of his brother-in-law, and his only sister, the Rev. and Mrs. S. H. Newman of Dayton, Ia., was the incentive for a Newman-Anderson family reunion at which C. K. Anderson was host at Andyville, Lake Catherine, Sunday.

The other remaining member of the Anderson family, a brother, Frank, of Frostproof, Fla., with Mrs. Anderson, was among those present.

Rev. and Mrs. Newman have four children, Mrs. W. E. Sterrett of Butte, Mont.; S. T. Newman, Ft. Dodge, Ia., and Emil E. and David, both of Kenosha, Wis., all of whom were able to attend. Also present was Mrs. Emma Colby, Rev. Newman's only sister.

Seventy were in attendance, of whom 65 were relatives.

A dinner, which included "golden" brown chicken, was served on a large table on the lawn. The table was decorated with 50 golden roses, a gift from the Newman children, and the home was adorned with seasonal flowers from the Anderson garden.

A beautiful anniversary cake, which was large enough to serve all present, was a feature.

"C. K." acted as toastmaster, calling on various members of the gathering for brief talks appropriate to the joyous occasion. Rev. Newman made the response on behalf of his wife and himself, and took this occasion, also, to present to Mrs. Newman a gold brooch. Rev. and Mrs. Newman were the recipients of a $500.00 Liberty bond.

Miss Caroline Newman, a granddaughter of the honored couple, sang "Jerusalem," and David Newman also sang. A poem which was sent by one of Rev. Newman's classmates was read by the Rev. J. H. Johnson of Kenosha.

During the day, photographs were taken of the Newmans, and also of Mrs. Newman and the two brothers, Frank and C. K. Anderson. The average age of the two brothers and sister is "78 years young." Various group pictures were also taken.

Twelve states were represented among the relatives and friends attending—New York, Florida, Texas, Missouri, Kansas, Montana, Iowa, Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois and Minnesota.

Those present included C. K. Anderson's son-in-law and daughter, Capt. and Mrs. William E. Schroeder, and their five sons, William E., Jr., Charles, Edgar, John, Arthur, James Michael and Richard Timothy, all of Evanston, Ill.; Mrs. W. E. Wagner of Pelham Manor, New York, a daughter of Mr. Anderson.

Attending from Fort Dodge, Ia., were Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Newman and Mrs. T. Pedersen; from Butte, Mont., Mrs. W. E. Sterrett and Miss Anna Mae Sterrett; from Kenosha, Wis., Mr. and Mrs. Emil E. Newman, the Misses Caroline and Arline Newman; Mr. and Mrs. David Newman and Norita Newman, the Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Johnson; from Oak Park, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson.

A number were present from Chicago, including Mr. and Mrs. P. Tuzzolino, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Lindeblad, Mr. and Mrs. Donald O. Lindeblad, Master Norman Lindeblad, Mrs. Charles Egbert, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Bard, Capt. and Mrs. Robert E. Bard, Mrs. Hannah Danielson, and child; from Waukegan, Mr. and Mrs. Russell O. Anderson, Miss Suzanne Anderson.

Other cities represented among the guests were the following:

La Porte, Ind., Mrs. Edna Benneboth, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Soderquist, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Baker; Blue Island, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. Guy Egbert, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Egbert and children; Kansas City, Mo., Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Carlson; Kansas City, Kans., Miss Rodaha Johnson, Mrs. Emma Colby, Mrs. Silas Compton; Minneapolis, Minn., Carl Bard.

Dearborn, Mich., Mr. and Mrs. Guy W. Egbert; Fort Atkinson, Wis., the Rev. and Mrs. Harold Carlson; Crystal Lake, Ill., Dr. and Mrs. V. I. Vestling; Mrs. Helen Landin; Watertown, Wis., Miss Ruth Landin.

Mr. and Mrs. Paige Perkins of Oargo called at the home of Mrs. Effie Nelson Monday afternoon.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank all our neighbors and friends for the many acts of kindness and sympathy shown, during our recent bereavement.

The Fillweber family

Shriveled Seed

Young seedlings from shriveled, light seed will be less likely to recover from severe freezing temperatures, especially under dry conditions.

Retains Flavor

Roll fish in corn meal, flour or fine cracker crumbs before baking or frying it and this will help to retain the flavor and moisture.

Indian Horses

The American Indians did not have horses before the arrival of Europeans upon this continent. Dogs were the only animals used by these North Americans. Some authorities believe that all the wild and Indian horses of the West sprang from a few which escaped from the troops of Coronado in 1541.

Pheasant Country

South Dakota, long famed as the country's outstanding pheasant state, had a pheasant population of approximately 16,700,000 birds early in the fall of 1944, according to the South Dakota Cooperative Crop and Livestock Reporting service. This is 44 per cent above the total population of chickens in farm flocks of the state. The figures, which are based on reports from more than 1,200 South Dakota farmers, indicate a statewide average of 34 pheasants for each 100 acres of land, or one pheasant for every three acres.

Five counties—Spink, Clark, Beadle, Miner and Sanborn—show pheasant populations of more than one bird to the acre.

Quality Window Shades

Quality in window shades is determined in part by how closely the fabric is woven. The more closely woven the fabric is, the less "filler" is needed to make the shade hang straight. Fabric that requires little or no filler will wear best.

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to all bowlers of Antioch and vicinity for their fine support during the past four years.

Wishing you all lots of x's during the coming season.

Legless Soldier
Unique Survivor
Of War Brutality

His Heart Carries On After Loss of Three Limbs at Once; Eyes Road Back.

YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO. — Cpl. Ralph Brown of this city, reputedly the only soldier to survive a triple amputation of three limbs at one time, still is exhibiting the spunk that made him a "unique survivor of war's hellishness," says the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"I want just one thing," he has written his mother, Mrs. Mary Brown, from his bed in Walter Reed hospital, Washington, D. C. "I want to get out of here and start moving around."

That is the ambition right now, of a man whose legs are gone at mid-thigh, whose right arm now ends above the wrist. His left hand still is in a cast with compound fractures, the result of a piece of shrapnel tearing through the palm.

First of all, Corporal Brown wants to get out of the hospital.

"And he'll walk out," Walter Reed officials said.

Then, in time, of course, he hopes to get back into the dairy business.

Measured for Legs.

He is already learning to operate an artificial arm.

The two-pronged, jointed "hand" is officially known as the prosthesis, unofficially as "the hook."

The corporal can light cigarettes and hold glasses with it. He prefers it to his left hand. He can only use the thumb and index finger of that one although daily massages later may restore it to its former strength.

While he has been measured for artificial legs, he will have to wait for them.

First he must exercise his thigh muscles. Then he must accustom himself to sitting up. He will find out how to balance himself without the straps that now hold him secure in a wheelchair.

Finally, his leg stumps must heal completely before the limbs can be attached.

Corporal Brown wants to return to his old job in a dairy. His former employer is waiting for him and declares the soldier can answer telephones, take orders and do other jobs that his physical condition will permit him to perform.

The day he reports for work at the dairy will be the end of a long road for the Youngstown corporal.

The road started at Metz, France, September 22, when Gen. George S. Patton ordered him to replace a wounded gunner in the company commander's tank.

He spotted two camouflaged German trucks behind a barn on the "routine dawn patrol." He thinks he got them both.

"Then the tank rocked," he recalled today. "We were hit in the right side. The commander yelled to back up but we stalled after 10 feet. There was a big blue flash."

Help Arrives.

When he came to, he was lying alone on the tank floor. As pain flooded over him, he thought: "I'm going to get out of this and go home and get well."

He managed to drag himself up to the gun turret and hung there by his armpits, calling for help.

A lieutenant and a buddy rescued him.

He remembers that later he lay in a foxhole, then he was switched to a tank, then to a litter on a jeep. Still later they cut off his blood-stained clothes at a field hospital.

In an English hospital two weeks later he dictated a letter to a ward-mate, telling his mother that "my right hand is banged up a little."

When he learned that he was going back to America, however, he insisted on writing a letter to his mother, telling her the whole truth.

Since he went to Walter Reed, he has undergone operations on his stumps to make it possible to attach artificial limbs to them.

His doctors say he is a model patient, cheerful and intent upon getting well.

Nurses say he doesn't demand enough attention because he "hates to bother them."

Corporal Brown's one worry is about his brother, T/Sgt. Robert, who is reported to be in an English hospital after having been wounded a second time in France.

Wildcat Is Found Slain
On Street in Detroit

DETROIT. — A wildcat which police said had been terrorizing dogs in the Palmer park neighborhood, was found dead in the street.

Police said the wildcat probably had been driven by hunger into the city. It apparently was killed by an automobile.

Residents had complained that their dogs were coming home nights slashed and bruised.

Speedy Invader Craft
Dashes Clear Over Isle

MANILA. — Sgt. Melvin Richard Miller, Blackwell, Okla., was going so fast in his amphibious landing craft when he hit the beach that he went right on across the island and into the ocean. He was part of the force landing on small Baipang island in Manila bay. The island is half a mile long and, where Miller hit it, only 10 yards wide.

Magician Finds
Queer Audiences
In Pacific Isles

Unwittingly Plays to a Jap
Patrol; Python Drops
In; Natives Flee.

CHICAGO. — When little Johnny Jones, a top-hatted magician from Chicago, took his bag of tricks to the Southwest Pacific he bargained for one kind of audience. But a couple of times there were some uninvited guests.

Johnny was on an open air platform in New Guinea with 3,000 soldiers in front of him. He blithely separated a half dozen steel hoops that were firmly linked together. He burned a hole in a G.I.'s handkerchief, then gave it back to him unharmed. As the soldier started off the platform Johnny pulled some baby clothes and a bottle of milk from the back of his blouse.

There was a disturbance in the audience that wasn't just appreciation. Johnny was surprised. "We never had anybody walk out on our USO camp show," he says. But people were leaving.

It was not until the show was over that Johnny discovered he had played to a party of Japanese. A Nipponese patrol had come inside the camp, got into the audience, and stayed there until escorted out.

He remembers that later he lay in confinement says the Chicago one.

"There were a lot of isolated Japanese patrols around here," Johnny says. "They used to turn up in the chow lines. They were hungry, hopeless, and had used up all their ammunition. Apparently they wanted one good meal before the jig was up."

The second audience to which Johnny unwittingly played was a 15 foot python. This time the disturbance was more unfortunate. The python fell from a tree into the crowd, sending four men to the hospital.

A third audience was not one that came to see Johnny, but one he went to see. He got permission and an escort to visit a Papuan tribe, thinking he might pick up a trick or two himself from the witch doctors. But with doctoring, it seems, was confined to herb brewing and drum beating.

When the natives had nothing to show him, Johnny decided he'd give them a trick or two of his own. He chose some of the simpler effects he had used on audiences in Chicago's Drake hotel, in the Clover club in Seattle, in New Orleans and New York.

Natives Are Scared.

He made a thimble disappear, then pulled it out of a native's ear. He took a pack of 52 "red" cards, gave them a shuffle and they turned black. Then he looked up to see his audience had diminished. The women and children had fled, and a few men were siding off in an unobtrusive fashion as possible.

Some stalwart souls stuck around, though, and when Johnny had finished, the chief, a shoeless man of 30, dressed in a United States army shirt and wearing bracelets, advanced and gave him his walking stick. Carved of black palm, with a religious symbol for a knob, the sticks are a symbol of authority.

Still proudly carrying the walking stick, Johnny is back after seven months of USO camp show touring overseas.

A navy man in the last war, Johnny had hoped to run into his son, who is a gunner's mate in the Southwest Pacific in this zone. He missed him by two weeks.

Soldier Sleeps Through Long-Distance Wedding

DALLAS. — A Dallas nurse who married by proxy a broken-jawed soldier sound asleep in an army hospital 5,000 miles away received a cable from him saying "our married life will never be any more difficult than our marriage."

The nurse is Ruth Edna Engle. The soldier is Lt. Jerry Krogh, 34, of Chattanooga, Tenn., now in the Aleutians. They met here about five months ago.

The marriage was held recently with Mrs. Krogh's attorney, Charles Wise, serving as proxy. Owing to time difference between Texas and the Aleutians, the groom was assumed to be sleeping.

Lieutenant Krogh suffered a broken jaw, his wife said, when he fell downstairs several days ago.

She notified him of the ceremony by cable, saying: "Missed you at the wedding, Honey mooning with the girls."

He replied: "Never a dull moment. Thought ceremony was extremely beautiful and simple. Know our married life will never be any more difficult than our marriage."

Miner Blows Up Cottage; Kills Widow, Maims Two

CLAY, W. VA.—Lawrence Welch, coal miner, who told state police he demolished a tiny home, killed a widow and injured her two daughters, pleaded innocent to a charge of first-degree murder.

Welch was arrested after state police found his mining badge at the scene of the explosion in which Mrs. Ella Lawhorn, 55, was blown through a wall to her death.

Welch told police he set the charge because he "was trying to frighten the family away." He said he had trouble with the Lawhorns but that he had not intended to hurt or kill anyone. Welch is married and has four children.

Polio Hospital Moved;

All but the Building

Charlotte, N. C.—A mile long caravan of cars, trucks and ambulances moved a hospital—patients, nurses and equipment—60 miles recently.

The hospital was erected hastily at Hickory last June when North Carolina was hit by a severe polio epidemic. The patients and equipment were removed to Charlotte, where a permanent polio unit has been built on the grounds of Charlotte Memorial Hospital.

Eighty-eight polio victims were removed here from Hickory.

Pull Out Tractor

When a steel-wheel tractor mires down, fasten a couple of steel cables to lugs at one end. With the other end of each cable fixed to a post a few rods back of the tractor, the tractor can be brought out without danger. The wheels back track on the cables, which wind up on the wheels between the lugs.
